SHIPPERS LIKE

The Proposed Waterway From Pittsburg to the Sea.

A SCHEME OF IMPORTANCE.

Rivermen Recall a Similar Project and Say the Canal

WOULD GREATLY BENEFIT TRADE

A caual from Morgantown to Cumberland, as suggested by a correspondent in Thursday's Disparch, would be a work of the utmost importance to the city. All the rivermen and shippers agree in savign so. A few, however, doubt the practicability of the enterprise.

The suggestion of a riverman to connect the Monongahela river with the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, from Morgantown to Cumberland, a distance of 60 miles, meets with the approval of Pittsburg shippers generally. If such a scheme is feasible, the possibilities of trade are apparent at first sight. In giving his opinion yesterday, Mr. G. W. Johnston, of James A. Henderson & Co., owners of the Pittsburg and Cincinnati packet line, said:

If such a canal could be built, the plan of the New Yorker to run a line of steamboats with barges from Omaha to the seaboard would with harges from Omaha to the scabcard would be possible. It may be the projectors of the steamboat line had such a scheme in view. I don't know anything about the country between Morgantown and Cumberland, or the capacity of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, but if such a project could be carried into effect, and it would be large enough for river hosts, it would be a great boon for Pittsburg. It would give us a waterway to the East, and with the canal to Lake Erie would connect us by water with the lakes and the scaboard. BALTIMORE'S IMPORTANCE.

I was down at Baltimore the other day, and I was impressed with the commercial importance of that city. More wheat is exported from that point than any other place in the country. The fact is that if such a canal were constructed it would give us a water outlet to Europe. Much of the wheat experted from Haltimore is carried from the West by the Baltimore and Ohio road, and it could then be transported by water. I don't like the idea of tunnels for I think they would be difficult to navigate. Everything, however, depends on the grade. General Passenger Agent A. E. Clark, of

I suppose Mat such a canal could be built, but it would require a great deal of money. It depends whether there is enough water on the divide to sundy the canal. I think, however, reservoirs could be built to keep up the supply, or possibly the tunnels could be cut deep enough to make the water run through. But I imagine that young children now will be grav-haired before either this canal or the one to Erie will be built. The Pittsburg people seem to have caught the Pittsburg people seem to have caught the canal fever. Rivermen generally would like to see such a canal built, but they realize that it would cost much money, and some of them are afraid that strong advocacy of the latest waterway would jeopardize the interests of the proposed Lake Eric project. WORK FOR MANY MEN.

William Martin, Secretary of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Association, said: One of the principal points to be considered is the large number of men to whom such an enterprise would give employment. If such a tunnel was constructed it would give steady employment for years to thousands of men. I think the State should do the work as the project, if carried out, would be a public improvement. The maintenance of the canal would also give employment to a considerable I think such a canal would be of incalculable north to the shippers of this city. For that used I say let us have it. It would result in eat good to the manufacturing inforests tich has been and no doubt will be again, early handleapped for shipping facilities, tisburg is hampered by a lack of means of ritisburg is hampered by a lack of means of transportation to the East and during the husiest season, the railroads cannot handle all the business offered them. The cost of such an improvement would be a mere bagatelle when the benefits are taken into consideration. The scoper the State takes up the matter the better for the shippers of this vicinity.

AN ADVERSE OPINION. Captain Joseph Walton said he did not think such a canal would benefit the river operators of Pittsburg. He had given no attention to the scheme, because it was of no interest to him. He said:

Our coal is all shipped down the river. It Our coal is all shipped down the river. It might help those who own mines in the immediate neighborhood of Morgantown. A good deal of land in that neighborhood is being bought up for coke ovens. I think it is a scheme of the ooke speculators. It would give them a cheap transportation route to the seaboard. It is much more important to Pritching to secure a ship canal to Lake Eris. That would be a great and direct benefit to the commerce and manufactures of this city, and would not cost as much as a canal through the mountains of West Virginia and Maryland. It was proposed, at one time, to build a canal from the Youghlogheny river to the Potomac, but that was equally silly.

Secretary C. A. Dickson, of the Pittsburg.

Secretary C. A. Dickson, of the Pittsburg and Southern Coal Company, said: That scheme is a very old one. I believe that such a canal was proposed by George Washing-ton, and it has been talked of at several times

COSTLY, IF PRACTICABLE.

Captain W. W. O'Nell said:

Such a canal could be built if the country wants to spend enough money on it. It is an old project. I heard of it as much as 30 years ago, I think. It would hardly be practicable to sect with the Potomac river at Cumberland. That river is navigable only to Washington. Above that it is full of shallows and rocks. It would cost a great deal of money to slackwater that stream. The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was washed out by the Boods last summer, and has not been in operation since. I see that railroad men are after it for a road to parallel the Baltimore and Ohio. Captain Samuel L. Wood said:

It is a good project and is practicable. Uncle Sam can build anything and tunnel any place. It is only a hatter of apending money. Anything that will increase the facilities for internal navigation will be a benefit to our commerce and to the people at large. This canal would give a great impetus to our trade. The views of Captain George Lysle are as

The canal would be a good thing. It would open up the Eastern market to the gas coal from the Monogahela Valley. At present that coal cannot be shipped to Philadelphia and New York because two companies on the Pennsylvania line are favored by that road. Miners in the Monogahela Valley cannot compete with the Westmoreland Coal Company and the New York and Coveland Gas Coal Company has because they cannot get the same rates. pany, because they cannot get the same rates. It has been tried several times. Such a canal would give a great impetant the coal business in the Monongahela Valley. Coal could be leaded right on the canal beats at the headwaters of the Monongahela and sent to the decks at Baltimore.

THE MONONGAHELA'S TONNAGE. In regard to the tonnage of the Mononga-hela valley, this week's Labor Tribune, to be issued to-morrow, will say: A sketch of the industries of the Mononga-hein valley as they are now, giving in detail the numerous plants and their aggregates of the tonnage produced, capital, wages and number of employes, would be an interesting and ef-fective way of putting the argument. Why, one day last weak there was a single tow of Puttiburg coul for New Orleans that measured 20,00 tons count to 60,000 tons transpared. Putsburg coel for New Orleans that measured 20,000 tons, equal to 60,00,000 tons transported one mile. Pool's Manual for less (the latest to our hand) places the mile tonnage of milronds in each of five States for that year at considerably less than this one tow of coal. Those States were Florida, West Virginia, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Delaware. The coal out of the Monongahela to New Orleans in 1889 amounted to the transportation of 25,000,000 tons one mile, which is in excess of the railroad tonnage of each one of 17 States. The river coal out of the Monongahela in a year is equal to about 2,50,000,000 tons one mile. This is only one industry of the Monongahela valley, the chief one for wafer-way transportation, but it does not furnish all the tonnage, and would not farmish more than half of it were there a broad gauge policy adopted as to water-ways.

CITY ORDINANCES ADOPTED.

Minor Business Transacted in Allegheny Select Connell Last Evening.

The Select Council of Allegheny City met last night in special session to hear a report from the Committee on Streets and Sewers. Mr. Muchlbronner presented a resolution for the purchase of property for the approach to the Spruce street viaduct for $9,802. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Cochrane called up the Common Council resolution authorizing the City Property Committee to take charge of the Property Committee to take charge of the Carnegie building and rent the hall at $100 a night until the care of the building is finally fixed. The resolution was adopted.

The ordinance giving the Union Passenger Railway Company the right to lay tracks on South avenue, School street and Robinson street, as passed in Common Council, was called up. Dr. Gilliford moved to amend by providing that on these streets the company shall pave between the tracks and for one foot on each side. The ordiand for one foot on each side. The ordi-nance went back to the committee.

Mr. Lare offered a resolution instructing the City Solicitor to take the necessary steps to abate the nuisance of filling up the bed of the river. It was adopted.

Mr. Kennedy's resolution offering the First ward public square to the United States Government for a postoffice was referred to the Committee on City Property. The resolution providing for the celebration of the semi-centennial of the city was also adopted.

SANDBAGGED FOR NOTHING. A Tax Collector Done Up for Awhile, but

saw a man lying in a gully alongside the road. Upon pulling him out of the ditch he was recognized as John Caughey, the tax collector of Stowe township. He was unconscious, and his face and head were covered with bruises. His pockets were turned inside out, and everything he had was gone. He was taken to his home and a physician summened, who soon brought him to con-

The next instant he received a stunning blow on the head. He had just finished collecting taxes that day, and supposed that the thought that they would get a good sum of money was what prompted the thieves. They were mistaken, however, as Mr. Caughey had turned the money, nearly $500, into the county treasury in the afternoon. There is no clew to the thieves. Mr. noon. There is no clew to the threves. A BUSY TIME AHEAD.

Inspector McAleese Proposes to Occupy the Whole March Term of Court.

Inspector McAleese last night said that he had enough business on hand for the March term of court to occupy the Criminal chambers during the whole session. Yesterday he was served with 30 notices of proceedings in which to have his witnesses in attendance, 17 of which have already been served to the officers in charge, each of whom has from 3 to 25 witnesses to notify in his particular case. The Inspector said:

"We have probably 100 cases on hand, and will most certainly push them at the earliest possible moment. I expect that all will be ready by the time the March term of court commences, and if it takes up the cases I have in hand, there will be little time for any other business in either court."

SPECIAL SALE

MEN'S SUITS!

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We have made a hig cut in the price of every medium and heavy-weight Suit, in both Sack and Cutaway styles. Our Clothing is not surpassed by any, and our prices, which are always as low as the lowest, are now pushed down still further in order to reduce our stock to normal size. Remember, every quality has been included in this reduction.
